DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Trogolo'342 in view of Braud'564, '354, '078.

The applied Trogolo'342 reference discloses a high pressure multiple layers laminate comprising antimicrobial agent. The Trogolo'342 discloses that it is known in the art to impregnate paper with claimed resins and an antimicrobial agent and then integrate such paper into a wood laminate. . See column 1, lines 57-67, column 2, lines 30-67, column 7, lines 15-25, claims.

The Trogolo'342 reference does not specifically states that such paper may be integrated into a flooring plank. Also, the Trogolo'342 does not specifically teach claimed antimicrobial agents. However, the applied Braud references teach that it is known in the art to use antimicrobial composition in flooring applications.

Art Unit: 1773

See Abstracts and examples in Braud patents. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to use Braud teachings and apply high pressure laminate of Trogolo'342 to flooring planks since such would improve antimicrobial properties of wood floor. Also, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to choose the antimicrobial agents, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

The amendments and remarks filed by applicants in their last response have been fully considered. However, the arguments have not been found to be persuasive. The examiner believes that the prior art combination of references clearly motivates one of ordinary skill in the art to integrate antimicrobial paper into flooring planks as it was outlined in the above rejections. Claims remain unpatentable in view of the prior art.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
